BloomDesignsCo Kids are starting to look forward to their next birthday celebration in large part the moment their party ends (and sometimes even before it ends!). And because Pinterest-worthy parties seem to be the new normal, a year about the right amount of time parents need to plan for the next bash. Exhausted already? We are here to help with some great theme ideas to make your child's party a breeze. So what do kids, especially boys, really want for their birthday theme? Well, we have a ton of birthday ideas for boys right here, starting with all interests and ages. For boys in kid's range of age, consider a dinosaur birthday theme or Mickey Mouse birthday for this Disney-loving kiddo yours. Younger boys are likely to want to have their say in the details of their party. They (and their friends) will be obsessed with Fortnite's birthday. Your boy is a bookworm? Try the Harry Potter themed party he will never forget. Are friends and family far away? Consider a virtual birthday so that out-of-town friends can join in the fun. Check out these epic birthday ideas for boys to make your little man feel special. Party on! 1 in 24 circus-themed birthday planning circus birthdays should not feel like a circus. A single statement-making element, like an oversized garland ball, can do most of the hard work in terms of decorating. Make things even easier on yourself by buying other items shown here. 2 of the 24 For summer water birthday parties or swim themed Birthday Birthday birthday amazon.com For summer birthdays when the temperature is high, you can't go wrong with a water themed birthday bash. Set up an inflatable slide and/or pool in your backyard, cook some hot dogs or other best grill recipes, and cool off with ice cream or slams. Water cannons make a fun party favor! 3 of 24 For an aspiring artist Art-Themed Birthday Celebrate the Little Picasso of Your Life with an art-themed birthday bash. Best? You don't have to break the bank. A giant roll of white paper and washed paint is all you need to pull it out, along with a combination of simple, colorful decorations and food (fruit skewers, vegetables and drop cupcakes). A few special touches like these pretentious lollipops, and the vual-you have a masterpiece party. 4 of the 24 slime-themed birthday parties the little dude in your life are obsessed with slime (not all kids)? Celebrate his big day with a party that will have him (and guests!) oozing smiles. For a meal, serve up a buffet of all things green (think cocktails, vegetable trays, and pesto pasta cups), and chop a drip-looking cake for dessert. Oh, and don't forget the edible slime! Yes, it exists. The big event, of course, makes mucus, so kit for each guest with everything they need and stash it in a tote like the one seen here. 5 of the 24 Treasure Hunt themed Birthday Kids love backyard scavenger hunting and if you're trying to stick to a strict party party it's a big topic. Write a series of hints, one of them leading to the next, with the latest key leading to the treasure, or in this case, a bunch of golden party bricks favored filled with candy. 6 of the 24 game-themed Birthday 7 of 24 for future astronaut Space Balloon Party Garland RuRu Monkey amazon.com $17.99 Remind the birthday boy that you think he's out of this awesome world by throwing a space themed party in honor of his last trip around the sun. Set the tone with some celestial appetizers and a galactic garland like this one. 9 of the 24 Detective-themed Birthday Does Your Kid Love a Little Mystery? Celebrate your birthday by throwing the ultimate whodunit where he and his friends play a detective during the day. (Trench coat recommended!) Set the tone early by sending out top secret invitations hinting there is a case that needs to be resolved. (We like the idea of printing invites so tiny a magnifying glass that you can send along to invites you need to read them.) For decoration, take a look at the color palette of black, red and crime-scene ribbon yellow as this party by Anders Ruff Design Co. (How clever is the fingerprint detail on this cake?) SHOP LEGO PARTY SUPPLIES 11 of the 24 Gone Fishin'-themed Birthdays have a little one who would rather hang on the riverbank than spend their time playing indoors? Celebrate your birthday with a fishing themed holiday he won't soon forget! If you can, reserve a picnic spot or pavilion at your local public park that allows fishing, so you have a built-in, theme-based activity. Scour thrift and antique shops for vintage fishing gear like live bait signage, bait, and minnow buckets (use them for floral arrangements to corral the party favors, you name it!). And don't forget to have some fun with your food. Gummy worms and Swedish fish are obvious must-show them in gear or bait boxes really reel in smiles. SHOP GUMMY WORMS 12 of the 24 Robot Birthday Party Creative Converting amazon.com boot up the festive scene, sticking to a mostly silver palette with pop mainstream colors. Save recyclables like soda bottles and boxes in the coming weeks, spray paint them with silver, and each craft their own robot costume. End the party with a robot dance competition, of course! 13 of baseball's 24Th anniversary Bash Hey Dough, Dough! Ask friends to wear their favorite baseball jersey and bring their gloves for a friendly inning or two. Stock up hot dogs, crackers and soft pretzels. Complete the look with a super-light DIY project: Draw a red stitch, seen on baseball, on white paper lanterns, cups and dishes. Run home! 14 of 24 Mad Mad Birthday pamper your young scientist in training with this creepy setup. You can pull off this theme at any time, but it would be especially cute and easier to shop if its birthday falls around Halloween. Keep the experiment running smoothly with self-service drink dispensers (topped with dry ice for an extra-creepy effect) and grab-and-go treats like monster guts seen here with sugar and tissue, across space. Get a textbook on sugar and cloth. SHOP PARTY SYRINGES 15 of 24 For Chocolate-Lover Willie Wonka-themed Birthday Does Your Boy Have a Sweet Tooth? How about a wonderfully wacky Willie Wonka themed bash?! To create excitement for this event, tuck the golden ticket invites into Wonka Bars (buy print labels like the ones seen here from the Etsy Party seller Starking and wrap them around simple candy bars). Squeeze the chocolate fountain, pile on the sweet decorations, and you'll have a party. Send them home when the sugar kicks in! 16 of the 24 Halloween-themed birthdays of 17 of the 24 superhero-themed birthday parties for the action-packed superhero party, it's all about activities and decorations.
